

“I thrive on working with different clients on many different projects. I would say that my diversity offers the most value to the clients I serve. It also keeps me happy.”

Andy Kuntz, CPA

Audit Shareholder

Andy Kuntz is highly sought after to perform due diligence for clients involved in mergers and acquisitions.

A professional who possesses excellent auditing skills, Andy started performing due diligence as a result of a need of some of his clients. The result is often a reduced purchase price or risk identification, earning Andy a key role in his clients’ approach to doing business.

Business owners run many decisions by him, from the selection of an insurance carrier to advice on a large acquisition. Andy is committed to being honest. “I tell my clients what I know and what I don’t know; if I can’t add value to a situation, I tell them that as well,” he says.

- Performed due diligence which resulted in a reduction of the purchase price by more than 25% on a $20 million deal. Respectively, his fees were extremely nominal.
- Advised a company against purchasing another company in the amount of $30 million after completing the due diligence in less than one week.

With more than 16 years of experience in both the public and private sectors, Andy’s audit experience includes both external and internal audit. He has also provided controller and CFO services and cash flow modeling. After his involvement with an initial business transaction, he maintains continuity by also providing the continued audit services.

Andy is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants (TSCPA). He is also the Treasurer of a local private school where he is relied on heavily by the Board to assist with their strategic initiatives and overall financial planning.

Andy lives with his wife of 15 years and their three children. He has successfully turned his nine-year-old son into a golf addict and hopes to do the same with his two-year-old twin daughters.
